

Putting your home back on the market

I noticed your real estate listing has been withdrawn from the market.

If your intention is to sell, I'm confident I can market and locate a buyer – giving you a high likelihood your property will sell and close escrow. I am a dedicated real estate agent, conscientious, organized and ready to make all the difference when it comes to locating a buyer at the right price!

Let me help you market your property so buyers notice. As always, properly staging your home makes the best first impression, and setting the right asking price entices serious buyers to make an offer.

Choose an agent with a proven track record. Call me today for a free consultation. We'll put together a plan which works to attract buyers ready to buy your home.
